Research on the spot...
Come to discover the world of research

Have you ever been interested in understanding which are the projects developed in the dark and dusty university labs and rooms? Have you often heard about PhD students but you don't know which is their role? Join PhD students in our first annual Research Day! PhD students will guide you in the world of research with short and interesting presentation about their activities within the different subject fields. The event is open to everyone! We'll be waiting for you!
