Background and purpose

This academic-education-incubation virtual conference focuses on Agri-entrepreneurship and Community Engagement and its purpose is to consolidate collective experience of the keynote speakers and participants towards showing the impactful role of research, education, and incubation in the socio-economic development of the African continent.

The organizers aim at creating a space of dialogue and a platform of co-creation for actors of the academia, industry, and public institutions about possible areas for collaboration in the fields of Agri-entrepreneurship and Community Engagement. The event will encourage speakers and participants to identify key areas of interest for research and lessons learned in the implementation of educational programs in the above-mentioned areas. Additionally, various stakeholders from the public and private sector will be invited to share valuable experiences and strategic orientation for the successful promotion and impactful practice of Agri-entrepreneurship and Community Engagement.

The conference will also highlight the crucial role of higher education institutions and education networks in the promotion of business incubation, especially through the presentation of experiences and successful cases. Moreover, the event intends to be an open space for the discussion and exchange of good practices in Entrepreneurship education, incorporating both theoretical and practical approaches for capacity building.

The event is sorted in five sections including speeches, panels, and a roundtable. Each of these sections is dedicated to a relevant aspect for the role of universities in supporting Agri-entrepreneurship and Community Engagement, including: education, research, the role of university incubators, experiences from university incubators, challenges in the management and sustainability of university incubators and a roundtable of stakeholders supporting Agri-entrepreneurship.

CO-ORGANISERS:

The speakers and panelists invited to the event come from a wide range of backgrounds including higher education institutions, corporations, international organizations, among others. Despite their diversity, they have in common their extensive experience working in the African continent, which ensures the generation of content that is relevant for the Strengthening Agri-Entrepreneurship and Community Engagement Training in East, West and North Africa (AgriENGAGE) consortium partners, for the project stakeholders and for the project's target audience. The conference is also expected to generate a network for the promotion of Agri-entrepreneurship and Community Engagement in Africa which stimulates the continuous exchange of knowledge and experiences between the institutions and individuals attending the event.

The conference is organized as part of AgriENGAGE, a project co-funded by the Key Action 2 of the Erasmus+ programme of the European Union. The project aims at strengthening higher education institutions to provide excellent training programmes in Agri-entrepreneurship and Community Engagement responsive to evolving labor market demands for stimulating agricultural transformation and competitiveness.

The Conference will be held as part of the Regional Universities Forum for Capacity Building in Agriculture (RUFORUM) Triennial Pre-Conference Events. The 7th RUFORUM Triennial Conference will be hosted by the Government of Benin through the RUFORUM member Universities. Two of these universities are also AgriENGAGE project partners, the University of Abomey Calavi and the National University of Agriculture.

By the end of the conference the organizers aim to launch the Network of African Universities Incubators; release a call for research in Agri-Entrepreneurship, and publish a guideline for the best practices in Entrepreneurship education (academic and hands-on).
