

20 febbraio - Representing vagueness of historical objects in Digital Humanities

Bio Walther von Hahn:

Walther von Hahn is professor emeritus for Computer Science and Linguistics at the University of Hamburg, Germany. He is one of the initiators of research in natural language processing and later on digital humanities in Germany. His main research topics are knowledge representation, multilingual application and processing of specialised languages.